

View this email in your browser

NEWS ON TRUST RESEARCH from the First International Network on Trust

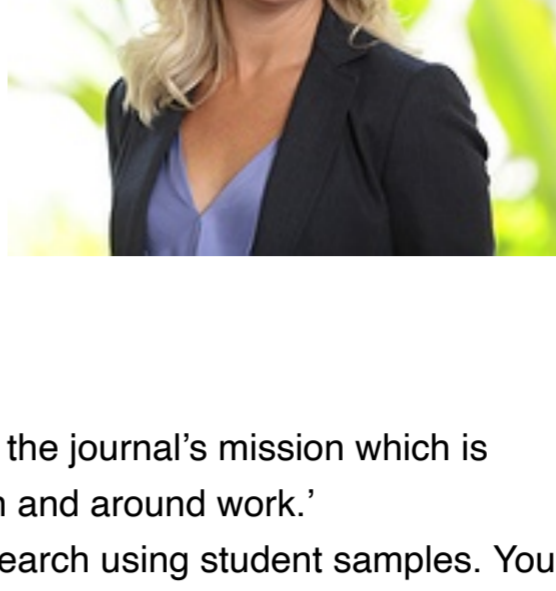

As we approach the end of 2020 many of us will be looking forward to a much needed break. A chance to reflect on the year coming to a close and a chance to ponder on what the year ahead may bring.

In this issue we share opportunities to join online trust events and outline initiatives we've been working on to support the network's activities in 2021 and beyond.

We're optimistic that the trust workshop will run in-person in November 2021 and we will update you on this in our spring newsletter.

Publishing in Human Relations: The do's and the don'ts

Drawing on her experience as Associate Editor for Human Relations, Cecily Cooper shares her top tips for publishing in this journal.

Q. "How do we make sure our paper is sent out for review?"

You need to make sure that.....

- 1. The content of the paper falls within the domain of the journal's mission which is focused on research addressing 'social relations in and around work.'
2. The paper is not based solely on experimental research using student samples.
3. The paper has a clear theoretical contribution and uses methods that are rigorous (i.e., not all single source, cross-sectional responses) and suitable for the questions asked.

Q. "What are the common 'high-level' reasons for rejection after initial review?"

Common reasons include.....

- 1. A lack of methodological fit with the research question or topic
2. The theoretical contribution is not clear and/or the research is not motivated in a compelling fashion.
3. The study(ies) are poorly designed and do not use appropriate measures and control variables.

Q. "What are the chances of you (Cecily) becoming my AE?"

Currently, I am winding down my term at Human Relations so am not taking any new manuscripts in an AE role. However, I will stay on the journal's ERB for many years into the future so there is a good chance that, if your paper is on trust, that it will land on my desk for review!

Q. "Are there any other things that we need to know or think about before submitting to Human Relations?"

One other thing to remember is that Human Relations has its own style guide, which is different from the AOM or APA style guide. Make sure you look online and edit your manuscript accordingly.

"May You Live in Interesting Times: Trust Dynamics in Changing Contexts"

EGOS Call for short papers: deadline 12 January 2021

Lovisa Näslund, Kirsimarja Blomqvist, and Guido Möllering are inviting short paper submissions to their trust sub-theme at the EGOS2021 Colloquium in Amsterdam

TiGRE webinar series

Next seminar: Thursday 17th December

The EU H2020 TiGRE project (Trust in Governance and Regulation in Europe) organises a webinar series for the scholarly community and the general public. The theme of the webinar series is "Trust & Regulatory Governance in an Age of Crisis".

Trust and the COVID-19 Crisis: Regulation and Compliance in Multi-level Governance

29 January 2021 (free, online event - registration required)

Join GOVTRUST for their first annual symposium on the above topic. During this symposium, members of the GOVTRUST consortium and guest speakers will present recent work on the topic of trust and the coronavirus crisis.

Upcoming AMR Special Topic Forum on Trust

AMR is sponsoring a special topic forum titled "Fresh Perspectives on Trust in Today's Changing Theoretical and Contextual Landscapes" (submission deadline February 1, 2022). The official call for papers will be released soon.

Post Doc Position: Building Trust in Crisis Situations

Our friends in Dublin City University are advertising a 14 month post doc position to work on a project related to how leaders build trust in crisis situations such as the current pandemic.

Early Career Researchers 'In the Spotlight'

This year has reduced opportunities for scholars to develop links with others in their field, to share ideas over a 'drink of choice', and to receive informal feedback. ECRs may have felt the effects of this most acutely.

NEW FINT Website ... have your say

We're excitedly working on a fresh website for the FINT strand in the new year. To ensure we haven't overlooked an important bit of information in the flurry of activity, we're asking members: "What would be on your wish-list for a new site?"

In the news

Talks

Mark Saunders took part in a recent podcast on maintaining trust in a digital workplace. You can listen here.

Papers

Campagna, R. L., Dirks, K. T., Knight, A. P., Crossley, C. & Robinson, S. L. (2020). On the relation between felt trust and actual trust: Examining pathways, to and implications of leader trust meta-accuracy.

Chen, S., Zhang, J. A., Gao, H., Yang, Z., & Mather, D. (2020 online first). Trust erosion during industry-wide crises: The central role of consumer legitimacy judgment.

Darabi, F., Saunders, M. N., K. & Clark, M. (2020; online first). Trust initiation and development in SME-environment collaborations: implications for enabling engaging scholarship.

De Jong, B. A., Gillespie, N., Williamson, I., & Gill, C. (2020, online first). Trust Consensus Within Culturally Diverse Teams: A Multistudy Investigation.

Dhaliwal, N. A., Skarlicki, D. P., Hoegg, J., & Daniels, M. A. (2020; online first). Consequentialist motives for punishment signal trustworthiness.

Gabriel, A. S., Koopman, J., Rosen, C. C., Arnold, J. D., & Hochwarter, W. A. (2020). Are coworkers getting into the act? An examination of emotion regulation in coworker exchanges.

Legood, A., van der Werff, L., Lee, A., & Den Hartog, D. (2020). A meta-analysis of the role of trust in the leadership-performance relationship.

Sanchez, I. D., Ospina, S. M., & Salgado, E. (2020). Advancing constructionist leadership research through paradigm interplay: An application in the leadership-trust domain.

Shen, L., Zheng Zhou, K., & Zhang, C. (2020; online first). Is interpersonal Guanxi beneficial in fostering trust? The contingent effect of institutional and individual-level characteristics.

Vogelgesang, G. R., Crossley, C., Simons, T., & Avolio, B. J. (2020). Behavioral Integrity: Examining the Effects of Trust Velocity and Psychological Contract Breach.

Williams, M., Belkin, L. Y., & Chen, C. C. (2020). Cognitive Flexibility Matters: The Role of Multilevel Positive Affect and Cognitive Flexibility in Shaping Victims' Cooperative and Uncooperative Behavioral Responses to Trust Violations.

Yao, J., Brett, J. M., Zhi-Xue, Z., & Ramirez-Marin, J. (2020). Multi-issue offers strategy and joint gains in negotiations: How low-trust negotiators get things done.

Conversation Pieces

Holmes, Saunders and Wheelers recently wrote an interesting piece for The Conversation on the topic of why virtual meetings make it hard for diplomats to trust each other.

Books

A practical guide that may be of interest to doctorate students:

Townsend, K., Saunders, M. N. K., Loudoun, R., & Morrison, E. A. (2020). How to keep your doctorate on track. Edward Elgar Publishing. The introductory chapter can be downloaded for free here.

Journal of Trust Research

The latest issue features a thought-provoking collection of papers. These include a re-dressing of the role of denials in re-building trust; International differences in trust towards physicians, and the role of language in trust.

Calling all news! We want to hear about your news. If you've had a trust-related paper published, are involved in an exciting trust project (although aren't all trust projects exciting?!), successfully defended your doctoral thesis -- or are the proud supervisor of a student who has just passed!

Best wishes from the FINT Board: Lisa van der Werff (Incoming President), Antonette Weibel (Outgoing President), Kirsimarja Blomqvist, Sandro Castaldo, Stacey Conchie, Cecily Cooper, Guido Möllering, Mark Saunders

Join the FINT LinkedIn Group to stay involved in ongoing discussions and announcements: https://www.linkedin.com/groups/4824312

Copyright © 2020 FINT, All rights reserved.

Want to change how you receive these emails? You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list.

